FRANCIS Cloak and Suit House

From Territorial Points

Mrs. Emory S. Kays and Mrs. Simons are in the Kay cottage under the hill. Considerably over two hundred round-trip tickets to Prescott sold so far this week indicates the strength of the migratory instinct among the Iron Springs people. This is said to be the liveliest station on the road, except Phoenix.

Nogales, Ariz., July 24.—(Special Correspondence of The Republican.)—The new Cananea branch of the Rio Yaqui Pacific railroad which is building between Nogales and Cananea, is being pushed with the utmost vigor at the present time. Owing to the cooler weather here a number of camps which have been occupied with the construction of the line into Culiacan have been moved to the Cananea branch, which has enabled the pushing of the road very rapidly. There are at present two pile driving outfits, four grading camps and several cement construction gangs at work, occupying about one thousand men and some six or seven hundred mules. The line is now laid with track to a point seven miles out of the town of Santa Cruz, at a point forty miles from Nogales and thirty-five miles from Del Rio. The heavy part of the construction through the hills, where it was necessary to do much blasting, has now been completed, and the larger bridges are also completed. The line crosses the Santa Cruz river seven times over very substantial bridges, and all the smaller bridges and culverts, when completed, will be of the best cement.

Two more construction camps, numbering several men and some three hundred mules, with grading outfits, will be sent up from Culiacan within the next few days and be set to work on this line. The men at the head of the work assured one of Nogales' business men a day or so ago that the line would certainly be completed into Del Rio not later than September 30th. Such rapid construction is made possible by the greatly increased force of men and animals now being put on the work, and also by the fact that from the point now reached the line will encounter few if any obstacles, and it is therefore probable that the new road will be pouring freight into Cananea by the first of October.

Now that the Greene interests have renewed activity, business is picking up very rapidly at the copper camp, but one of the prominent merchants and buyers of Cananea informed a Nogales merchant this week that no large orders for fuel, merchandise or material were being placed just at present owing to the fact that it would be to the company's advantage, as well as to the advantage of all the merchants who visit the new line from Nogales is completed, as freight coming in by the new line will be much less expensive than that sent by way of Naco.

The Greene interests and all others in Cananea will ship in all their coal, coke and other supplies by way of Nogales, and all heavy freight out of that camp will also be forwarded by way of the Line City.

This will mean a greatly increased tonnage passing over the Southern Pacific's tracks at this point, and the enlargement of the local freight yards will at once be begun to accommodate this great traffic. Even now the freight yards at Nogales are crowded, and it is to be expected that the fact that the line cities are becoming a very important terminal point for roads both north and south.

At the meeting of the Board of Trade Tuesday evening, the Fourth of July committee having in charge the big celebration made their final financial report, showing that although expenses for the celebration were over eighteen hundred dollars, the committee would have a deficit of but about six dollars, which would be taken care of.

The country hereabouts has received daily showers for several weeks past and the hills are beginning to be covered with a decided carpet of green, which will greatly assist the cattle interests, as feed was becoming very scarce previous to the rains. The Rev. Mr. Bennett of the First Episcopal church of Prescott will preach at St. Andrews church in Nogales the coming Sunday and will look over the field with a view to making this his permanent field. Crawford street, one of the main residence streets of the city, has now completed sidewalk construction and when the grading on the hill is completed, which will be within a few days, the street will present a very attractive appearance and property values will be greatly enhanced. Negotiations are now under way with officials on the Mexican side of the line looking to the near installation of the sewerage system, which has been persistently talked of for several months. Provisional arrangements have been made with one of the large ranch owners below town for storage tanks, etc., and things are in line for prompt construction of the system as soon as the preliminaries are out of the way.

Miss Mary Wiley and John Cartwright called at J. A. Riggin's Wednesday afternoon, while on their way to visit Mrs. Horace Smith, Mrs. Cartwright's aunt. Mr. Cartwright recently came here from California. On Thursday, he left for the Cartwright range in the hills.

Sunday morning Mr. Haynes drove to the Nelson school house where he held religious services.

Mrs. Ivy and daughter Elizabeth drove to Phoenix Thursday to visit Mrs. Ivy's father, who left Friday for San Francisco, Oakland and other California points.

Mrs. Brooks visited her sister Mrs. Jack Brooks of Cartwright Friday.

The rain, while it did much good, damaged quite a lot of hay in this vicinity.

Mr. Hanson is improving his place by putting a large screen porch on the south of the house.

The Marlar threshers finished threshing for Frank Bryant Monday. Mr. Bryant had something like 649 sacks off of 40 acres. They had just begun threshing Friday when the rain came, so were compelled to lay over until the grain dried. This is the last job of grain threshing, and at the present the threshers are being overhauled and being prepared for threshing alfalfa seed. Will Marlar and Mr. Bright drove to Buckeye this week where they engaged to thresh 200 acres of alfalfa.

Mrs. Jack Harris and Mrs. Ivy have made several trips to town this week to meet Mrs. Harris' daughter, whom she is expecting from California. For some reason she has been detained.

George Kay and Mr. Harvorton drove to Phoenix Friday.

Mr. Haynes has moved into the new store room. The store room is quite large and has a large living room at the back making it convenient for those who wait upon the customers.

AMUSEMENTS

THE REAL MEANING OF MELODRAMA.

Melodrama is the play of every-day life. It is the romance of current events. A fight in the street or an accident may have woven around it as interesting a melodrama as one would wish to see. It is the very human quality in melodrama that makes it so popular with the average man and woman. Melodramatic writers are close students of human nature; they cater to no long-haired class nor fashion cult, but to the people. The Earl Burgess company will be seen here at the Olympic theatre in a season of real straight from the shoulder American melodrama. The opening play will be the "Queen of the White Slaves," a real straight from the shoulder thriller and probably the most successful melodrama ever written. The Earl Burgess Co. will be found a splendid organization and there handling of these plays will prove a decided novelty. This company carries every production complete and no expense will be spared as regards costuming and scenic details.
